

Working from home?

Place a rug under your feet. Not only will your feet stay warm while you work, you'll stay comfortable and avoid the temptation to turn up your heat.

Spending more time at home?

Check out these tips to reduce energy and save money

Use your oven. Now's the time to use your oven to roast some savory suppers and do your holiday baking. You'll add warmth to your home and save money by eating at home.

Replace worn or ripped door sweeps including those on doors in attached garages. Sweeps block drafts from reaching inside your home.

Limit the use of exhaust fans, which draw out heated air. It's okay to let shower steam make its way through your home during the winter season. It adds moisture to dry winter air!

Open curtains and blinds on south-facing windows during the day to let the sun help heat your home. Close them on winter evenings to prevent drafts and avoid heat loss.

Replace the ten most-used incandescent bulbs in your home with LEDs to save about $55 per year.

Rearrange furniture that may be blocking heat registers or radiators to let heat flow more readily to living spaces.

Schedule service for your heating system to maintain efficiency, and clean furnace filters and chimney flues.

Stay comfortable with your thermostat set at a lower temperature by wearing your slippers and a cozy sweater. For each degree you lower the temperature you'll save about three percent on heating costs for the period the setting is dropped.
